Dear Fellow Exhibit Coordinators,

I hope this letter finds you well and hope that you are enjoying the current "off" season.

As a fellow coordinator I'm sure you're well aware of the adventures and challenges we face in putting together a well planned exhibit hall and the joy it is to come across a company that has a great product for your attendees as well as great people to work with. Supercharged Science is one of those companies.

This was their first year attending our convention and it was a pleasure to have worked with them. We have a variety of science companies on our exhibit hall floor; however, the type of science that they offered was something new to our floor. Their product was well accepted, simplistic and covered the subject in a clear and concise manner. Their booth was constantly busy and the attendees seemed to thoroughly enjoy it.

The staff was great, Aurora Lipper, the owner of the company, is very energetic and has a dynamic personality. She is very knowledgeable in this field of science and is very enthusiastic about the product and that is evident to the attendee. Her associate, Amy Englemann was equally enthusiastic and they seemed to work great together. They were both very thorough in their paperwork and always wanted to be sure they were following the terms and conditions. They were always very professional and personable at the same time.

They are on our list to invite back to our conventions next year and if they choose to accept we would be glad to have them back. If you have any questions, please feel free to contact me.

God bless you in all your efforts.

For CHEA of California,

Aimee Cordova
